Henderson Is Offering a Decidedly Good Vaudeville Bill This Week.

Great joy at Coney Island! Carter De Haven's mamma now announces that Carbe at Weber & Fields's next sea-At the end of the current week son. At the end of the current week the Carter De Haven Trio will be dissolved and young De Haven will submit himself to the discipline of a Weber & Fields's stage management. It is the best thing that has ever happened for Master De Haven. Properly trained for a fiber of a best at the best thing that has ever happened for Master De Haven. Properly trained for a job as bill-poster or scene-shifter. Incidentally his mother was the biggest bore of all theatrical mammas. Carter's new job will relieve vaudeville of his mother's conversation.

The trio of which De Haven is the nominal star head the bill at Henderson's. As is usual with child acts, they made quite a hit. This is rather due to the cleverness of the two girls than to any brilliant display on the part of Master De Haven, who is extraordinarily tiresome in an imitation of James Russell and ordinarily tiresome in an imitation of James Russell and ordinarily tiresome in an imitation of James Russell and ordinarily tiresome in the remainder of his performance.

Henderson is offering decidedly good bills at his Coney Island house. Lest week's attraction was the best of the season. The Klein, Ott Brothers and Nickerson musical specialty was one for the fifth and last week. They vary their programme constantly and offer a really satisfactory musical performance.

Children of the Tenements.

Of all the charitable institutions maintained in Westchester County there is none that the society women of New York who spend the summer in fine mansions along the eastern bank of the Hudson take more interest in than Robin's Nest, a summer home for crippled girls from the slums.

The institution now contains twenty-four little girls, some of them so crippled that they can hardly hobble about. Perhaps the brightest of the little company is a six-year-oid girl, who is sufficiently slightly deformed in the back and at times has to be carried around by a times has to be carried around by a times and the miles and the player of the French horn contribute care in the sound in the player of the French horn contribute every time they start to play upon the brass wind instruments. Their best work is accomplished on the copper chimes, which they play exceedingly a musical act without any complication in the matter of comedy, and please because they go about their work in a thorough and consolentious manner.

More good music we had from the Milani Trio. This specialty is composed of a violinist, a guitarist and a French horn performer. The guitarist, who is a new member of the trio, possesses a voice of more than ordinary vocal ability and is a decided addition to the act. The whistling solo which has been the chief blot upon their performance has slightly deformed in the back and at the player of the French horn contribute excellent solos. Had the Milanis to the manager than she is at the prestribute excellent solos. Had the Milanis contribute every fine they start to play upon the copper chimes, which instruments.
